

UNITEDHEALTH GROUP RECOGNIZED AS ONE OF THE 50 MOST COMMUNITY-MINDED COMPANIES IN THE UNITED STATES

Minnetonka, MN (June 20, 2018) – For the seventh consecutive year, UnitedHealth Group has been named an honoree of The Civic 50 by Points of Light, the world’s largest organization dedicated to volunteer service. The Civic 50 provides a national standard for superior corporate citizenship and showcases how companies can use their time, skills and other resources to improve the communities in which they do business. The award recognizes UnitedHealth Group as one of the most community-minded companies in the United States, and is one of 12 companies that have been included in the rankings every year since the initiative began in 2012.

“Our mission is helping people live healthier lives and making the health system work better for everyone, one person, one health system at a time, with integrity, compassion, innovation, trusting relationships and high performance,” shared Dave Wichmann, CEO, UnitedHealth Group. “I want to express my gratitude to the people of our enterprise for serving their local communities through their day to day work, as well as their dedication to volunteering their personal time to help others.”

“The Civic 50 truly highlights the commitment of community and civic engagement of America’s leading brands,” said Natalye Paquin, president and CEO, Points of Light. “Points of Light believes that people drive change in addressing society’s growing and most profound challenges. The business community plays an important role in creating and delivering innovative solutions that drive social good in the communities where they live and work.”

The Civic 50 honorees are public and private companies with U.S. operations and revenues of $1 billion or more, and are selected based on four dimensions of their U.S. community engagement program including investment, integration, institutionalization and impact.
